

Becoming the sharpest pencil in the Box

2010 MASL Spring Fling

March 27, 2010 Winslow HS

Wouldn't you like to be the sharpest pencil in the box, wouldn't we all? And as you might have guessed MASL has a plan to help get you there. MASL has invited Sue Ballard to join us on Saturday, March 27th at Winslow High School to present a day long workshop on Implementing AASL's Standards for the 21st Century Learner" in your school. Sue in the chair of AASL's Implementation Team for the Standards and she and her committee have been hard at work for months putting tools together that will work in your school setting. We hope you'll join us for the day and go home with a start on your own implementation plan.

Here are the details of the day. You'll earn 5 contact hours, get a really good lunch and have the opportunity to work on standards for your specific situation. We'll also be connecting the dots from the national standards to our own statewide standards so that it will all make sense when you return to your own school setting. And for good measure we'll throw in a few door prizes as well as opportunities to visit with MSBA, Chickadee and other youth related groups who have been invited to have informational tables in our registration area. Registration for the day will be $45 for members and $55 for non-members. And there will be copies of the new MASL School Librarian's Handbook available that day for anyone joining us whose school has not received their copy.

Here is the tentative schedule:

- 8:30 Registration
- 9-10:15 Sue Ballard
- 10:30-11:30 Breakout Session #1
- 11:30-12 door prize drawings, informational tables and posters with lesson plans that use L4L
- 12-1 Lunch
- 1:15-2:15 Breakout session #2
- 2:15-3 Report out

Updates and more details about the 2010 Spring Fling will be available on MASL's web page www.maslibraries.org.
